memo

Rev. Dr. Arvin Luchs

Some say the pipe organ is an anachronism—the instrumental equivalent of a dinosaur or slide rule. I've been told that at least one university dropped its major in organ performance for lack of students. Too often, in small churches, the consoles gather dust, and the pipes are rusting for lack of a skilled organist. Some of the trendy mega-churches refuse to install them—opting instead for electrified praise-band instruments and keyboards.

I think the reports of the death of the pipe organ are premature!

Those who proclaim its demise just haven't heard Jonas Nordwall!

Under his talented touch those magnificent piped marvels come alive with energy, excitement and vigor. A California reviewer, still basking in the glow of a Nordwall concert, enthused, "...if more music in this style and nature were heard, the organ might again become an appealing music resource in the public front." *

Jonas is a rare talent equally adept at both classical and popular music. In his time at the keyboard he has accompanied worship in Jewish, Christian Science, Roman Catholic and United Methodist services.

But that's only a small slice of his résumé. As a classical musician, he performs regularly with the Oregon Symphony, Portland Chamber, Portland Festival, and Columbia Symphonies as well as both the Vancouver, Washington and B.C. Symphonies. And he has studied with a long list of the world's best organists.

When Jonas is not on our bench, he's probably on a concert tour. His performance schedule as an "Allen Organ Artist" has taken him to nearly every corner of this country as well as China, Japan, Australia. He was guest recitalist and adjudicator for the International Organ Competition in Geneva, Switzerland. He is regularly featured on the PBS radio show, Pipe Dreams. Last I heard, Jonas had released 25 LP's, CD's and cassettes on various labels—both solo organ-duet—even trio organs (ask him about the Trio Con Brio sometime!).

He's a commanding presence in the theatre organ world as well. For many years Jonas was "Senior Staff Organist" for a restaurant chain—The Organ Grinder—playing their historic theater organs in both Portland and Denver. He's played in parks, movie houses and, at one time, was assistant staff organist at Oaks Park Skating Rink. Little wonder that in 1987 his peers honored him as "American Theater Organ Society Organist of the Year."

Did I mention that he is also in demand as an organ architect and consultant? He spent 30 years doing that with Rogers Organ in Hillsboro. Jonas' hand can be found in installations in halls, churches and homes around the country including the Crystal Cathedral in Anaheim, Spreckels Center in San Diego and the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C..

Jonas' interest in keyboards started early—when he was just four years old? His first instrument? An accordion! By ten, though, he was studying organ with one of the best teachers in Portland. He was playing professionally in his teens and earned a college degree in music and organ performance at the University of Portland.

Best of all, Jonas has shared his amazing talent, dynamic spirit and wonderful music with us for over 35 years. Rightfully, we celebrated that milestone with a tribute last Sunday. A special anthem for choir and organ was commissioned in his honor. At the reception for Jonas we sang and celebrated his service to the church..

Jonas, we thank God for the blessings of your ministry of music. We're delighted that with your skillful touch those amazing pipes come to life and lift our hearts each week. May it be so for many years to come!

See you in Church!

Arvin

Planet Church, an Outreach Ministry of First UMC, will present a free showing of An Inconvenient Truth at 7:00 PM on Tuesday, October 3, 2006 in the Fireside Room. Child care and popcorn will be provided!

An Inconvenient Truth has helped many churches talk about climate change. With the widespread distribution of that movie this fall to congregations, coordinated by The Regeneration Project <http://www.theregenerationproject.org/inconvenient.htm>, thousands of churches will be discussing the topic of climate change in a religious context.

An Inconvenient Truth engages viewers in the science of global warming and moves us towards being part of a solution for this planetary emergency. Over 130 congregations in over 30 Oregon cities will be joining thousands of congregations across the nation during the first week in October in presenting film portrayal of climate change which can help us begin to grasp one of the biggest moral challenges ever faced by our species. If you did not get a chance to see it in the theaters this summer, we urge you to make this showing of An Inconvenient Truth a high priority.

An Inconvenient Truth a high priority.

PUBLIC POLICY ADVOCACY FORUM

Beyond Charity: Speaking up for the Common Good

Public Policy Advocacy Forum

Sunday, October 22, 11:45 AM in the Fireside Room

We will each learn how to find and develop our "public voice" with the help of:

Norene Goplen,

Director, Lutheran Advocacy Ministry of Oregon

Phillip Kennedy-Wong,

Director, Public Policy, Ecumenical Ministries of Oregon

Angela Martin, Director,

Economic-Fairness Campaigns, Our Oregon

In his Initiative to Eliminate Hunger, Bishop Hoshibata challenged United Methodists to address the injustices that contribute to the persistence of poverty and hunger. This forum/workshop will teach us how to act on our core values to engage in practical, "Yes, I can do this!" advocacy.

This forum is brought to you by our Hunger Task Force and co-sponsored by Church and Society, Planet Church and our Health Care Task Force. We hope that all will come away convinced of the moral imperative for persons of faith to participate actively in the political process, and feel motivated and empowered to do so.

A light lunch of pizza by Hot Lips, along with fresh veggies, drinks and cookies will be provided.

Rev. Lowell Greathouse, Minister of Discipleship

When I was at a conference on spiritual activism in Washington, DC in May, one of the speakers was 2002 MacArthur "genius award" Fellow Liz Lerman. She is an amazing choreographer, who has taken her unique artistic sense to a variety of settings throughout the country to engage others of all ages in dance. During the conference, she invited the 1200 of us to participate in a hand movement exercise at the close of one of the sessions. However, before we began, she said that she wanted to be sensitive and not ask us to do anything that was uncomfortable for us. But then she said that she was taught at a young age to "turn discomfort into inquiry."

Identify one thing in your life that causes you discomfort.

How might you turn this situation into a process of personal inquiry?

DAILY DEVOTIONS

Do you take some time each day for devotional reading? Start each day with some quiet time, take a moment for centering over lunch, or spend time in the evening preparing for the next day. It is a discipline which can make a difference in your life. Author, Patricia Wilson, suggests that "in that brief time you give your reports, confirm your direction, receive instruction, and affirm your faith in the concept of God with us." Whether you're just getting started, are looking for new material, or realize it's time to order your devotional guide for 2007, I encourage you to consider The Upper Room Disciplines. A copy is available in the church library for your review. Ordering is as simple as calling Mary Jane Hendrickson, 503/639-775. She wants to hear from you by October 15, 2006. The books will arrive before the holidays and can be paid for at that time ($11.00).

GOOSE HOLLOW FAMILY SHELTER GARAGE SALE

We are beginning our preparations for the 2006-2007 season of the Goose Hollow Family Shelter. As our opening date of November 1, 2006 approaches, we have a request for all of you: THINK GARAGE SALES, because: 1. They are an excellent source of linens and blankets for our shelter. To start the season, we need at least 30 pillow cases, sheets and blankets. So look for those garage sale signs in your neighborhood. If you mention that you are purchasing things for our family shelter, you may get an additional discount or at no cost. Just drop your donations off in our donation bin, located just to the east of Collins Hall by the stairway to the basement.

2. Our Second Annual Goose Hollow Family Shelter Rummage Sale is scheduled for October 6-7, 2006 at First United Methodist Church and we need your donations. We are accepting clothing and household items, furniture, sporting goods, craft items, baby items, luggage, books, videos, etc. This year we will be located indoors, so no worries about the weather. September 29, 2006 is the earliest date that we will receive items for the sale. Note that we cannot accept large appliances, paints, computer items, tires, or any hazardous materials. This is a great opportunity to recycle those items you're not really using, and clear some space in your closets and garages. It's also a great shopping opportunity to find some great bargains for yourself.

We also want to thank all of you again for the support you have provided for the guests at our shelter. Your donations of time, supplies, and money helped us host approximately 51 families last year, including 45 children under the age of 10. We look forward to working with all of you again this year.

55-ALIVE

The popular 55-Alive Driving Course for senior adults will be offered Wednesday, October 11-12, 2006 from 9:00 AM to 1:00 PM. The cost is $10. (Make checks payable to AARP.) To register call the Church Office at 503/228-3195.

FROM JONAS NORDWALL

I would like to thank everyone for the wonderful celebration of my 35th anniversary as your organist. It is great to know how much honest appreciation First UMC always shows to staff members.

I especially want to thank Arvin and Kelly for all their work securing the commissioned work and for keeping it such a good secret. Also thanks go to my wife, Nancy, and my daughter, Gennie for finding and assembling those photos.

Thank you for your gift. It will be put towards a train trip through the Canadian Rockies that I have always wanted to take. As my traveling has always been by air for business, I finally will have the time to take this relaxing trip next year.

Again thank you for a wonderful day.
