Each year, young people from our church attend a series of classes and then are paired up with mentors from our congregation as they move toward official membership at First United Methodist Church. On Sunday, March 18, 2007 we confirmed eight young people into our community of faith.

NEW MEMBERS AT FIRST CHURCH: AN UPDATE

Last year, 70 new individuals became a part of First Church. This is the largest one year total since 2000. In addition, so far this year, 24 new members have joined our church family. They come from various backgrounds, experiences, and parts of the country... and bring new insights, skills, and interests to our church.

If you have not yet met these individuals, we'd encourage you to stop by the bulletin board near the church office so you can put names and faces together. It's good to be a part of a growing community and have the opportunity to make new friends.

If you are new to First Church and would like to learn more, our next orientation session will be Sunday, April 22, 2007 from 12:00 to 2:00 PM. Call the church office, if you'd like to be a part of this session.

Rev. Dr. Arvin R. Luchs

When we declared this Lent to be a “Season of Forgiveness” we did not anticipate the flood of public confessions and apologies deluging us recently. A drunken movie idol blurts out vile anti-Semitism, a self-righteous TV evangelist revealed as a hypocrite, a glamorous rock star admits drug abuse, a pompous politician-and would be Presidential candidate--confesses adultery, a comedian slurs his gay co-workers, Army hospital commanders agree they have neglected their duty and ask their soldiers for forgiveness. It seems that each day another celebrity or public official is pleading for understanding and forbearance.

What are we to make of the rampant public penitence? Are these serious attempts to unburden the soul, make amends, and repent? Or, does the new-found humility mask a fear of the consequences of punishment? Could it be they are cynical attempts to stir sympathy as a public relations strategy?

The truth is we can't really say. Confession, repentance, forgiveness and reconciliation are essentially spiritual matters and we can't really judge what is sincere and/or authentic in another's heart. Nor can we make generalizations about such very different people in unique situations.

But there are some things that distinguish meaningful repentance and forgiveness from easy apologies.

The Rev. Peter Storey knows about that. He is a spiritual advisor to the South African hero and leader, Nelson Mandela. Dr. Storey was also a key architect of the “Truth and Reconciliation Commission” that has brought healing to that once apartheid-divided land.

“Forgiveness and reconciliation never come cheap,” he told a clergy gathering in Virginia recently.*. “The deepest lessons in forgiveness come from those who have felt great pain.” Facing and truthfully acknowledging our wounds, both inflicted and received, is an important first step. Accountability must follow. Truthfully acknowledging what has happened-and accepting responsibility-is vital to both the victim and the perpetrator. That sets the stage for discovering different ways to live--embracing more careful and caring lifestyles. Finally, Storey suggests, we must realize that change and healing ultimately come from God. So, he concluded, “Make space to lift up the transforming miracle of forgiveness.” The motto of the Commission he helped created sums it up: “Without truth, no healing, Without forgiveness, no future.”

I do not know what to make of the current flurry of public confession and absolution-and it would be wrong to judge in haste. But it causes me to realize that meaningful forgiveness is tough stuff: spiritually demanding and often painful. But repentance, authentically understood as a way of life that involves reshaping thoughts, emotions and actions, is crucial for healthy living. **

Something to ponder during this “Season of Forgiveness.”

See you in Church!

CONGREGATIONAL MEETING TO FOCUS ON OUR FUTURE

At noon on Sunday, March 25, in the Fireside Room, there will be a third congregational meeting to look at plans for addressing physical plan needs and changes that will make our church building a more welcoming and engaging place for worship. As we think about our 50th Anniversary and beyond in the current church building, many members have been involved in looking to our future. Please join us for a presentation on these plans and how we may accomplish them. A light lunch will be provided and child care will be available.

communicating

prayer concerns

by Tom Foster, Minister of Pastoral Care

We have several ways of communicating our requests for prayers at First UMC. The first is calling the Prayer Chain of the United Methodist Women. The information on the Prayer Chain is not shared in any other way unless specifically requested. The second, prayer concerns are announced at worship on Sunday morning. The third, is our Prayer Concerns Voice Message. It is extension 500 when calling the church office. The fourth, is the Circuit Rider, which is sent out every other week. In addition, private prayer concerns can also be given to one of the pastors with the request that it be kept private, i.e. only the pastors are told. It is our intention to only share a concern for prayers with the consent of the person for whom the prayer is requested. We know that there are times when a request may come from a family member or friend and consent from the recipient is not feasible, but we prefer to avoid this situation.

electives

for enrichment

Bill Moyers
on FAITH & REASON

When religion and secularism meet the result is often a labyrinth of misunderstanding. In a five-session class, based on Bill Moyers' PBS series: Faith and Reason, we will explore the jagged, mysterious region between rationality and belief guided by the provocative insights of eight significant novelists and writers. Their views range from Islam through traditional Christianity all the way to agnosticism. Dr. Luchs will facilitate discussion of some of the most challenging issues for believers in this 'post-modern' world. The class will meet in the Fireside Room on Monday mornings from 10:00 AM to noon from April 23 through May 21, 2007.

faithful in small things because it is in them that your strength lies.

thank you

from the Iverson family

Dear Friends,

We want you to know how grateful we are to our caring church family who has supported us these past months and yes, even years. Your love, prayers and concern have always uplifted the whole family, especially Tom. What a blessing that he never felt forgotten during his long ordeal. Your letters, visits and phone calls were very meaningful to him and we want to thank you sincerely for your part in this process.

His service was a memorable occasion for all of us and we sincerely thank all those who participated, both music and the spoken word. Thank you too, for the many cards, notes and memorials that have been sent to us.

Sincerely,

Lyle, Beth Mikkel and Family

I also wanted to thank you. Your support with me has been the way I have gotten through all these years. I also need to thank all the anonymous people that have given gifts and contributed to my college fund.

I love you all,

Leif Iverson

Rev. Lowell Greathouse, Minister of Discipleship

The period of Lent has a serious, solemn feel about it. But this season also gives way to the celebration of Easter, and it is transformed by spring-with skies that alternately open to sun and rain...and a landscape that is transformed by flowers, various colors and the promise of new life. There is a scent of newness and possibility afoot during this time of the year. In this spirit, it is good for the spiritual seeker to be mindful of Emily Dickinson's thoughtful words: "The soul should always stand ajar, ready to welcome the ecstatic experience."
